Notice regarding the Sales Suspension of Non-Participating Individual Variable Annuity (GMLB Type IV), “Five Ten”

T&D Financial Life Insurance Company (“T&D Financial”), a subsidiary of T&D Holdings, Inc., hereby announces that the Company has decided to suspend the sales of non-participating individual variable annuity (GMLB Type IV) called “Five Ten”. T&D Financial is scheduled to stop sales on March 31, 2010, as set forth below.

1. Background of the Sales Suspension

The non-participating individual variable annuity (GMLB Type IV) called “Five Ten” is characterized to provide a guaranteed minimum living benefit of basic policy amount (single premiums) at the maturity date of investment period. Since it had launched in June 2008, the business has been expanded steadily. In consideration of the changing business environment and other factors, however, T&D Financial has decided to suspend the sales of this product.

2. Impact on Business Performance

As T&D Financial continues the sales of this product until March 31, 2010, the impact of this sales suspension will be so limited for the earnings forecasts for the year ending March 31, 2010. These will be promptly addressed, however, if it becomes necessary.
